3. Will your research involve the participation of marginalized and vulnerable sectors of the community? Vulnerable sectors are “persons whose situation or characteristics may make them unable to provide free and informed consent to participate in the research. This group includes children, institutionalized, persons, those who have cognitive impairments, those in a position of inferiority, etc.” (National Ethical Guidelines for Health Research, 2011) If YES...Indicate in your proposal how appropriate and just compensation (proportionate to the contribution in the research, research budget, and local conditions) will be provided to these vulnerable and marginalized participants. Describe the informed consent process to be undertaken with these participants. This includes, but is not limited to, written informed consent, verbal informed consent, plain language statements, and translated consent forms.
